

Ling & Son's conducts their annual "Summer Kid's Fair"

It was two years ago that the management of Ling & Son's Supermarket decided for the first time to offer a Sunday afternoon of fun for the many families that may not have been able to "get away" for the summer school break. It was such a success that this past Sunday they again held an event that filled their huge parking lot with rides, activities and entertainment, which is getting bigger and better each year.

In the past, free samples of many of the treats sold in the market were offered, but this year, the fair was a "learning experience" for the children, not only to be environmentally conscious, but to also earn their rewards, which were of a healthier nature than candy, also.

Ecotech and the AHATA Environmental Committee gave away gifts to children that answered their "environmentally aware" questionnaire, and gift packages of cereal and snacks were awarded for coloring in animal pictures. The children that managed to score a goal against the "Pringle's Team" earned their treats, and what had to be the largest collection of 'jumping castles' the island has ever seen were assembled for an afternoon of athletic fun.

Favorite cartoon characters visited with the children and posed for pictures, and noted local MC Ruben Garcia hosted the entertainment that included clowns and magicians. It was a magical afternoon that delivered a subtle message, and great fun for all the family!
